Close to the Line

The Democrats having just changed their national committee chairman because of suspect financial dealings now discover they are in hot water with the new man also.

Frank E. McKinney of Indianapolis, Ind., the new chairman, is accused of putting $1,000 in a tractor concern and running it up to a profit of $68,000 in 10 months, after which the company went "broke."

The deal concerned the Empire Tractor corporation back in 1946-47 — and Chairman McKinney, angrily refusing to quit his high political post, answered his critics in this manner:

He explains that, while it is true that he bought 1,000 shares of Empire common stock for $1 a share, in order to get into the deal he also had to buy $25,000 of preferred stock. When he cashed out he merely got his money back on the $25,000 preferred. So his profit ratio, he explains, instead of being 68 to 1, was only about 4 to 1.

A $26,000 investment makes quite a different story from the quoted $1,000, and Mr. McKinney's explanation about the required purchase of preferred stock strikes a responsive chord among business men — for it is common practice when financing companies to sell preferred stock or debentures or bonds at par, and virtually give away the common or equity stock.

A 400 per cent profit in 10 months, however, is still speculative. But that alone wouldn't justify the removal of Chairman McKinney. The gimmick in the whole business seems to be this:

The Empire Tractor company and its sponsor were, at the time McKinney invested in it, related to Empire Ordnance, which had important dealings with our own and other governments. Court proceedings brought out these people made big sales to the United States, to Argentina, to the United Nations Relief, and to the Rehabilitation Administration.

Now the fact is that regardless of whether he is technically innocent or guilty in the eyes of the law, Chairman McKinney should resign from the Democratic National Committee.

Every public official knows that to avoid embarrassing the administration and damaging the confidence the people should have in their government his personal finances must be above suspicion. McKinney's public usefulness is destroyed by the fact that he publicly admits having made money out of a company that was doing business with the government.

It is true that the party chairman gets no pay. But under the circumstances a forthright critic is justified in saying he appears to have already gotten it.

This isn't a matter of one-party immorality. Your editor has made a similar observation about Guy Gabrielson, chairman of the Republican National Committee. Mr. Gabrielson went to the RFC for an admittedly sound business loan to a large and prosperous oil company in which he was an important owner. He could have gotten the money elsewhere, presumably — but he didn't.

Gabrielson compromised himself by asking favors of the same government in which he presumes to be the spokesman for a major political party — and like McKinney he has lost the confidence of his fellow citizens.

School Board Asks Public to Pay Taxes

At the regular monthly meeting of the Hope School Board the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

"The recently published delinquent property list appeared to be unusually large. A substantial part of this list was made up of persons assessed in the Hope School District.

The finances of the district must be of greatly decreased state, aid to the Hope Schools, depend on local taxes to a greater extent than last year and much more than the preceding years.

A large part of the funds involved in these delinquent personal taxes will go to the Hope Schools. For that reason we urge all persons whose personal property taxes as assessed in the Hope School District to promptly pay the same.

Murry Believes Redistricting Plan Illegal

Little Rock, Dec. 11 (AP) — Atty. Gen. Ike Murry says he thinks that the state senatorial redistricting adopted last week violates the state constitution.

Murry, who voted against the plan to give Pulaski county a third senator at the expense of 11 western Arkansas counties, yesterday filed a statement as his dissent to the board's action.

The state apportionment board — Gov. McMath, Secretary of State C. G. Hall, and Murry — last week reshuffled the state's districts. They gave Pulaski county and additional seat in the state senate by placing the 11 western counties into three districts instead of the former four.

Their action complied with an order of the Arkansas Supreme court to give Pulaski an additional senator. Earlier this year, the board had declined to realign the senatorial districts. It is compelled by law to make necessary adjustments in both house and senate representation following each federal census.

Murry voted against the second redistricting plan, but was overruled by Gov. McMath and Hall. The attorney general said yesterday that he favored giving Pulaski another senator, but he said the approved plan — sponsored by McMath — "creates a great many other inequities."

Murry said the redistricting discriminates against a number of counties while removing a former discrimination against Pulaski county. Moreover, he said the McMath plan does not comply with the portion of the Supreme court decision which said that "in accomplishing this end (three Pulaski senators) the board has, of course, the right to make such changes as an equitable distribution in correctly created districts may demand."

Murry said a new fifth district created by the board "in my opinion is almost a monstrosity as senatorial districts are usually thought of, and as I think, were envisioned under the constitution."

"This district consists of five of the large counties (Scott, Polk, Montgomery, Selmer and Little River) of the state and runs from Sebastian county on the north to Red river and the Texas border on the south, distance of approximately 150 miles and extends from the Oklahoma border on the west to Garland county on the east."

"The length of this district is a greater distance than from Little Rock to Alma, or from Little Rock to West Memphis, or from Little Rock to El Dorado."

"The geography of the country and the topography are such that I cannot see how this district could possibly be classed as a 'correctly created' district."

Murry also claimed that there was improper representation under the plan.

"With three senators for Pulaski county, each senator will represent 65,561 inhabitants, whereas one senator in Mississippi county will represent 82,373 and one senator in Jefferson county will represent 78,073 inhabitants."

Murry added that he thought the board should have delayed action until a more equitable plan could have been worked out.

55 Head of Stock Sell for $27,000 At Mena Auction

Bob Shivers, manager and Glen Wallace, president of the Third District Livestock Show attended a sale of the Ouachita Hereford Farm, Mena yesterday and saw its owner, John Faulkner, sell 55 head for approximately $27,000.

Johnnie Brannan of Hope was assistant sales manager of the show. All stock sold was from 6 months to 2 1/2 years old. The top bull calf, just under two years, brought $900 from R. T. Creiger, Grannis, a member of the Third District Board. The top cow, three years old, brought $1,050.

Most of the stock was purchased by Southwest Arkansas buyers.

U. S. Turning Out Atomic Weapons

Washington, Dec. 11 (UP) — America already is turning out new weapons made possible by "very vital" information learned in this year's atomic test blasts at Frenchman's Flat, Nev.

And even as these new arms go into the stockpile, U. S. weapons are getting set for more tests this spring in their unremitting drive to keep our atomic lead over Russia.

As Gordon Dean, chairman of the atomic energy commission, soberly told reporters at a news conference yesterday:

"We have already said we have a substantial advantage (over Russia). We are trying to maintain it."

Dean disclosed that U. S. atomic explosives are going into finished weapon form as rapidly as they are produced and that new information is translated into new weapons designs as quickly as it is obtained.

Dean would not say what role in war the new weapons are designed to play. But he previously had claimed a "new era" in which atomic weapons could be used against soldiers on the battlefield as well as against cities and other strategic targets.

On other subjects Dean said:

1. The AEC and defense department are intensively studying whether to recommend a new expansion of the atomic project. They will report to congress in January. Dean would not hint what the recommendation will be. An expansion program now under way will more than double production. Dean said atomic raw materials prospects are sufficient for a further arms production increase of 150 percent. But he said the strain on the U. S. economy and the need of the rearmament program would be severe and indicated it might be unwise.

2. He is sure the atomic engine for submarines will work but wouldn't say when it will be completed. Other sources have said some time in 1953. Dean said he also is confident an atomic airplane engine will be perfected, but not as soon.

3. The AEC expects a report in a month from industrial firms studying possible participation of private business in atomic power and fuel production.

4. He still hopes newsmen can be permitted to see one of the future tests — if difficult security problems can be licked. But he would not commit himself one way or another.

State Cotton Crop Shows Big Drop

Washington (AP) — The Agriculture Department, in its first report of the year, today estimated this year's cotton crop at 13,200,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight.

This estimate is 411,000 bales less than the 15,771,000 bales crop forecast a month ago. It is much larger, however, than last year's very small crop of 10,012,000 bales and considerably larger than the 10-year (1940-49) average of 12,030,000 bales.

The indicated crop falls slightly below the government's production goal of at least 16,000,000 bales.

The department has called for another big crop next year — again at least 16,000,000 bales — to meet heavy demands under the preparedness program and to supply customers abroad.

The department estimated the acre yield of lint cotton at an average of 27.15 pounds compared with 26.2 last year and 25.9 for the 10 year average.

The acreage harvested was estimated at 26,698,000 acres compared with 17,845,000 last year and 21,922,000 for the 10 year average.

In an accompanying report, the Census Bureau said 12,592,634 ginning bales of cotton were ginned prior to December 1 compared with 8,785,265 to the same date last year and 13,975,810 two years ago.

No estimate of cottonseed production was given. But the department said that if the same as the average for the past five years, production would be 6,135,000 tons compared with 4,078,000 last year and 4,900,000 two years ago.

The average harvested, the yield per acre and production of cotton, respectively by states included:

Missouri 490,000 acres harvested, 312 pounds per acre and production 320,000 bales; Virginia 21,000, 365 and 16,000; North Carolina 690,000, 382 and 550,000; South Carolina, 1,045,000, 394, and 860,000; Georgia 1,400,000, 321 and 935,000; Florida 65,000, 258 and 35,000; Tennessee 775,000, 333 and 540,000; Alabama 1,400,000, 303 and 920,000; Mississippi 2,330,000, 333 and 1,620,000; Arkansas 2,070,000, 290 and 1,255,000; Louisiana 920,000, 400 and 765,000; Oklahoma 1,450,000, 149 and 450,000; Texas, 11,800,000, 187 and 4,100,000; New Mexico 320,000, 423 and 284,000; Arizona 555,000, 222 and 89,000; California 1,290,000, 467 and 1,710,000.

Discussion of War Prisoners Tangles Talks

Munsan, Korea, Dec. 11 (AP) — Truce negotiators discussed exchange of war prisoners today for the first time and immediately tangled on how to do it.

The Communists proposed all prisoners be released by both sides. United Nations insisted on a "fair and equitable" exchange, which was interpreted as a man-for-man swap.

The prisoner question was taken up by a two-man subcommittee (one from each side) a few minutes after the Communists capitulated to Allied insistence that the subject be tackled now.

Simultaneously the Red negotiators intimated they would agree to continued rotation of troops and to two other Allied demands if the United Nations command would agree to neutral behind-the-lines inspection during a Korean armistice.

The Red concessions rekindled hopes of a possible truce by Christ mas.

UN planes bombed and strafed the security area surrounding their Kaesong headquarters. But it appeared the incident would be smoothed over. Neither side seemed desirous of making it a major incident.

There has been no official word on how many prisoners the Reds hold. But Lt. Col. Howard M. LeVie, U. N. spokesman, said Communist broadcasts reported 139,000 U. N. and South Korean troops were held by the Reds.

"Roughly I'd say we hold 100,000 North Koreans and between 15,000 and 20,000 Chinese," LeVie said. He estimated that the Communists have 70,000 to 85,000 South Korean prisoners, and 12,000 to 14,000 U. N. prisoners. Of the U. N. group he estimated 1,000 to 1,500 were British, 1,000 were from other countries and the remainder were Americans.

His figures on possible American prisoners don't coincide with a recent U. N. atrocity report.

Col. James M. Hanley of the U. S. Eighth Army said recently the Reds have killed about 5,600 Americans after taking them prisoners. Fewer than 11,000 Americans have been reported missing in action, so Hanley's figures would leave only about 5,000 Americans as potential prisoners.

A Communist newspaper at Pannumjui said last week that not more than half the missing Americans were Red prisoners. He intimated the others probably were killed in action and their bodies not recovered. He said this was the normal ratio of missing troops.

As a result of Tuesday's developments in the truce tent city at Pannumjui, negotiators are working simultaneously on two of the three remaining clauses of a proposed armistice — supervision of the truce and exchange of prisoners.

The prisoner problem was tackled by Rear Adm. J. E. Libby, a recent addition to the U. N. command armistice team, and North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Song Cho, who has been directing Red talks on truce supervision.

Lee proposed this solution in the two and one-half hour meeting: "After the armistice agreement is signed, all prisoners passed by both sides shall be released," Libby countered with a two-point plan:

1. Early, regulated exchange of prisoners of war on a fair and equitable basis and under suitable supervision.

2. Suitable supervision to insure humane treatment of, and comfort for the sick and wounded before and during exchange."

In response to Lee's questioning, Libby said that "fair and equitable" meant an exchange which would not give either side an advantage if hostilities are resumed.

Prisoners not exchanged, presumably, would be released only after a formal peace is reached.

LeVie said that the Allies were not going to hand the Reds a lot of troops they could use to strengthen their North Korean and Chinese armies. He said if the Allies hold more prisoners than the Reds, the exchange would be disproportionate.

"We didn't get very far," Libby said. "We pressed for the exchange of information on the location of POW camps and names and nationalities of prisoners they hold."

"Of course they have all our information because we turned it over to the Red Cross."

"They refused to exchange information."

"In effect," Libby said, the Reds "refused to discuss anything until we agreed" to release all prisoners as soon as an armistice is signed.

Fulbright Asks Public Airing of Tax Scandals

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP) — President Truman arranged to talk today to Democratic Chairman Frank McKinney, who has called for a "dramatic and drastic" cleanup in the wake of spreading tax scandals.

McKinney himself has been under fire for a stock deal in which he turned over a quick $68,000 profit on a $1,000 investment. Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) said today there ought to be a full public airing of the transaction "for the good of the party."

McKinney was put on the White House calling list for a mid-afternoon appointment. There was no announcement on the subject of their conference, but it seemed certain they would discuss conditions exposed by the house tax investigation.

Mr. Truman cut short a Florida vacation and flew back here Sunday amid rumors that he was planning some sensational move in the tax matters. These reports said Mr. Truman might assign FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to a government-wide inquiry or might name a bi-partisan commission to investigate.

Fulbright sounded his call for an airing of the McKinney stock deal after the party leader hit back at critics of the transaction.

"This thing ought to be looked into, and clearly explained," Fulbright told a reporter. The Arkansas senator, who has often had differences with the Truman administration, commented that when McKinney was tapped for the party chairmanship, "none of us from the South was consulted."

McKinney vigorously denied at a news conference yesterday that he had been in any "shady venture." He said the stock deal questioned as a 68 to 1 profit actually yielded a 4 to 1 profit, because he put into it, altogether, $26,000.

McKinney conceded that he got back $68,000 after ten months on a $1,000 investment in common stock. But he said, he had to buy $25,000 of preferred stock along with the common, and sold that back at no profit.

He said Cohen's offer to buy at that price was prompted by a desire to get control of the firm's common stock so he could sell the company.

The party chairman — himself called for President Truman to take "dramatic and drastic" steps to clean up conditions exposed by a house investigating of tax collection scandals. He said he may see Mr. Truman soon.

McKinney was commissioned by the President in October to see to it as chairman that the Democratic party is "in a position to show on the record that there is no basis in fact for the Republican smear campaign."

Some Democrats as well as Republicans say they believe that charges of corruption in high office may become a major issue in next year's campaign.

The White House said yesterday Mr. Truman probably would meet "soon" with Attorney General McGrath. The justice department has been under fire along with the internal revenue bureau, in the tax inquiry.

Without direct reference to McKinney's explanation of the stock transaction, which took place before he succeeded William M. Boyle Jr., as national chairman October 31, Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) told reporters:

"The sooner we get malfeasance out of the office, the better it will be. Nothing could give the people more assurance than to clean house."

There must also be a new concept of public service where the what is legal and what is illegal, but between what is right and what is wrong."

Boyle, quit as Democratic Chairman after denying he had attempted to use his influence to help a St. Louis printing firm obtain a Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC) loan.

McKinney told a news conference yesterday "no impropriety" was involved in his profitable stock transaction and indicated clearly he has no intention of quitting.

Senator Welker (R-Idaho) said he hopes McKinney remains on the job.

"I hope he stays in so that we can take this issue and many others like it to the people next year," the western Republican declared.

McKinney said he had invested $1,000 in Empire Tractor corporation common stock and had received a $68,000 profit when he sold it back 10 months later, in August, 1947, to Frank Cohen. Cohen once was head of the Empire Ordnance company, which was under congressional investigation during World War II. The tractor company he formed subsequently went into bankruptcy at Philadelphia.

Truman to Get Test as Master Politician

By LYLE C. WILSON

Washington, Dec. 11 (UP) — The next few days will test the right of President Truman to be called a master politician.

His master's degree was won in 1948. Republicans and anti-Truman Democrats were agreed then that he belonged in the political league of F.D.R., Calvin Coolidge and the great Theodore Roosevelt.

Those men were almost pure professionals. Each was a money player or clutch hitter, meaning that they were at their spectacular best under pressure and when trying to come up from behind.

That is where Mr. Truman is today: Under pressure and trying to come up from behind. Foreign policy is not going well. The hot war continues in Korea. The cold war continues through the rest of the world. Our North Atlantic Allies now admit their inability to meet primary commitments for mutual defense.

But Mr. Truman's present peace of mind is most disturbed and his future place in history most challenged by events here at home. Corruption is an ugly word, but the sense in which it has been charged against some areas of the administration, it means: Implication of integrity, virtue or moral principle; depravity.

These charges largely are unproved. But it is of recent years that congressional investigations forced a Reconstruction Finance Corp. house cleaning. Coincidentally, William M. Boyle, Jr., resigned as chairman of the Democratic national committee.

Now the bureau of internal revenue and the justice department's tax division are making headlines as congressional investigators ask questions and a good many government officials and lesser-known their jobs. There is complaint of judicial obstruction of grand jury proceedings.

Mr. Truman must deal effectively with one or both of the bad situations which confront him if he is to remain a master politician in good standing. A big game of hot off disclosures about the bureau of internal revenue and justice department at home.

A spectacular cleansing of infested areas at home would help the voters bear the disappointments of events abroad.

A combination of popular and fruitful action both at home and abroad could send Mr. Truman's stock zooming again as it often has zoomed in the past. Inaction could be politically fatal.

With an election year coming on, Mr. Truman must be in the lead along those lines, too. His return from Key West leaves the public to expect from the White House this week Mr. Truman's best effort his Sunday punch.

Tax Fraud Cases Show Big Increase

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP) — The number of tax fraud cases turned over to the justice department for prosecution increased two and a half times in July, August and September, compared with last year.

That was during the time a house subcommittee investigation of tax avoidance, now running at full tilt, was just beginning to warm up.

In the same period, despite the mounting total of fraud cases, there was a sharp decline in the number dropped without full prosecution.

This picture of a toughening in the government's drive against tax fraud was outlined today by Internal Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlap in a report to Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, who has general supervision over the revenue bureau.

Dunlap also reported that 40 revenue employees were fired and 22 quit while under investigation from January through September. Few of these had been announced previously.

Adding unannounced firings and forced resignations since September, the toll among tax service employees has reached at least 13 in 12 months — 66 fired and 35 resigned.

The revenue bureau had no comparative figures immediately available, except to say there were only 10 "preparations for cause" in the fiscal year which ended in June, 1950.

Earlier, the bureau reported that a million taxpayers owe the government $682,000,000 — some $90,000,000 of it clipped from paychecks by employers but not turned in to the tax collector.

The report on tax fraud cases gave this comparison for the July-September quarter:

In 1950, 110 new cases were turned over to the justice department from the penal division of the revenue department. The justice department declined prosecution in 63 cases, dropped or dismissed 30 others after they reached court, and got 40 convictions.

There was backlog of 1,101 cases at the beginning of the period, 1,064 at the end.

In 1951, 260 cases were turned over for prosecution. Only 11 were dropped or dismissed, and prosecution was declined in only 42. Sixty-four defendants were convicted.

This is an increase of 144 per cent in the number of new cases, an increase of 53 per cent in convictions; a decline of 60 per cent in the number of cases dismissed and a drop of 35 per cent in the number which the justice department refused to take to court.

On the filing, a bureau spokesman said the total of 103 loss and half of which have been announced includes routine quarters

Youth Tells of Slaying His Mother

Oakland, Calif., Dec. 11 (AP) — A 19-year-old high school boy told police he hacked his mother to death because "she bawled me out for playing hockey."

23 Left Dead by Typhoon in Philippines

Manila, Dec. 11 (AP) — A typhoon howled out into the China sea today leaving 23 dead and tens of thousands homeless in the devastated central Philippines.

The Philippines news service reported 200 were missing.

Winds of 130 miles an hour blew away thousands of houses, and thatched huts, drove ships ashore, uprooted trees wholesale.

Ninety per cent of the homes on the east coast of Leyte, where the typhoon first hit, were reported wiped out. Inhabitants called it the "worst typhoon in living memory."

Meanwhile, 20,000 refugees fled Candian island and its erupting Hibok Hibok volcano.

They crisscrossed the strait to Mindanao island by every means available.

Behind them Hibok Hibok belched flames and smoke for the eighth consecutive day. Huge landslides thundered down its slopes.

Chairman Martindale emphasized that the newly elected committeemen will have greater than usual responsibilities in the coming year. The National emergency and defense production program has added a great deal to the responsibility of farmer committeemen.

Although they serve only a few days a year in program administration, they are on call at any time to carry special assignments. Committeemen are directly responsible for the local administration of the Agricultural Conservation Program and price support operations.

In addition they cooperate with the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation in the writing of all risk crop insurance and with other U. S. Department of Agriculture agencies and groups in duties connected with the nation's defense efforts. Both community and county committeemen are elected for one year. They take office immediately.

Murray, however, said that if he did, Oklahoma would be in the Democratic column. Asked if this prediction would stand if Gen. Eisenhower ran as a Republican, Murray replied:

"Let's not mention Eisenhower by name. Let's just say that the majority of our people like administration — not many generals."

The Republican guests, Edward F. Arn of Kansas and Edwin McCheser of New Mexico, where a little more reticent.

But Arn did say:

"Truman won't be a candidate. He knows either Taft or Eisenhower will be his opponent, and he knows he can't beat either of them."

The assembly's proposal apparently envisaged a positive but limited delegation of power to a central authority, although it did not specifically say so. Participants in the authority then could work out some association with Britain.

Interstate Oil Group Opens Convention

Little Rock, Dec. 11 (AP) — The Interstate Oil Compact commission, which governs by suggestion the oil industry in 20 states open its annual two-day meeting here today.

Representatives from all the member states with the exception of New York, are expected to attend the meeting. Delegates from the Venezuelan government also are expected to be present.

The IOCC is made up and controlled by oil-producing states. It has no police powers to enforce its program of preventing waste of a natural resource through cooperative measures, but recommends action to be followed by individual members. It is financed by contributions from members.

Four governors of member states arrived last night and were entertained at a dinner by Gov. Sid McMath of Arkansas.

The talk centered more on politics than petroleum. The two visiting Democrats — Johnston Murray of Oklahoma and Allan Shivers of Texas — both predicted that President Truman would not seek reelection.

Murray, however, said that if he did, Oklahoma would be in the Democratic column. Asked if this prediction would stand if Gen. Eisenhower ran as a Republican, Murray replied:

"Let's not mention Eisenhower by name. Let's just say that the majority of our people like administration — not many generals."

Auto Salesmen May Have to Explain Sales

Detroit Dec. 11 (AP)—Top auto industry executives may be called to explain sales practices which government agents claim have cost the country's defense effort more than $300,000,000 in excess profits in the last three years.

A congressional investigating committee, headed by Rep. Porter Hardy (D-Va.), heard the accusations yesterday as it opened week-long hearings into purchases by the army's tank-automotive center here.

Rep. Clair Hoffman (R-Mich.) suggested that automotive officials be called Hardy said they had been "invited" to appear and that if they failed it might be necessary to subpoena them.

Committee Investigator John L. Shaffer testified yesterday that the tank-automotive center has difficulty in purchasing parts directly from manufacturers.

He said manufacturers frequently refuse to bid on government contracts or else bid out of proportion so that the middlemen get a crack at the profits.

General Motors Corp., Electric Auto-Lite, Studebaker, Timken-Detroit Axle Co., and Chrysler were among those singled out for criticism.

Chairman Hardy exclaimed at one point in the hearing: "Why should a parasite get a profit for performing no economic services just to get a little rake-off?"

Shaffer said he based his estimate of 300,000,000 in excess profits paid out since 1949 on an investigation covering the last 14 months.

He said the center purchased 300 parts in the 14 month period for $6,313,372 whereas, as a "reasonable profit" to the manufacturers, the outlay should have been $4,730,775.

Shaffer said the government paid an additional 30.2 per cent for au-

Snow Belt Move Into Midwest

By The Associated Press

A new surge of cold Canadian air moved into the Midwest today sending temperatures below zero in some of the northern border states.

Light snow fell in much of the cold belt, extending from the eastern Dakotas eastward to Michigan. It was below zero in some parts of North Dakota. Near zero was forecast for northern Minnesota tonight.

Cold weather continued in parts of the western states but temperatures were near or a little above normal over other areas. Warm weather was in prospect for most of the Southwest and South Central states.

Rain fell in a narrow belt from east-central Mississippi to western South Carolina early today. General rain weather was reported in other areas outside the snow belt in the Midwest.

Longtime parts from General Motors by buying through its sales agency, United Service Motors division.

He explained, "When General Motors sells direct to the government, it makes an average profit of 7 per cent. But when it sells to the government through its sales agency, GM makes an average profit of 33.9 per cent."

Shaffer testified that Chrysler Corp. charged the government $31.91 for parts that cost the original manufacturer $23.34. He added that a small part which Electric Auto-Lite of Toledo made for 21 cents subsequently was bought by the government for 33 cents.

Studebaker assemblies reached the tank-automotive center at a cost of $147.30, he said, after charging hands the first time for $106.95.

Shaffer said he also found out that Timken-Detroit axle made an item at a cost of $17.65 and sold it to the Federal Motor Truck Co., which in turn got $26.04 when it sold it to the government.

DOROTHY DIX

Office Infatuation

Dear Miss Dix: My problem began about four months ago when I took a new job. I am 33 and have been out of school a year. This is my fourth job and I really love the work, the surroundings and the people I work with. But there is a man here with whom I have become infatuated. I know I do not love him but this infatuation is getting the best of me. He is married and has two small children. He is 31 and has a very important position here.

Whenever he is in the office, I can't take my eyes off him. The problem is complicated by the fact that he feels the same way about me. People are beginning to suspect something is wrong the way we look at one another. He is urging me to go out with him, and so far I have resisted the temptation to accept his invitations. But I know I'll weaken before long. I couldn't bear quitting the job because everyone is so pleasant and I like the work. I'm so mixed up my life seems nothing but worry and tears. I feel so ashamed of myself, yet I still go on feeling the same.

Answer: Regardless of your conviction that you can't change your feelings about this man, the one thing that you simply cannot and mustn't is continue to float along on this romantic cloud that you've conjured out of the blue. You are headed for tragedy and disaster. You seem to realize the enormity of the step you're contemplating, but without enough comprehension to get out of the situation while you can do so with dignity.

You Will Suffer
This man is perfectly willing to accept the adoration of an attractive youngster, and might even go as far as to carry on a love affair with you. Then just where will you be? The heartache following such a course of events will be incon-parably worse than the pangs you will suffer in breaking off all connections with this man at once. Thank your lucky stars you had sense enough to seek advice before it was too late, and turn your efforts to forgetting him.

Naturally the best thing to do is change your job. Since you've already had four in one year another move can't affect you too much. Then turn your thoughts and your attentions to boys your own age.

Don't fool yourself into thinking you mean anything to this man. He's wrapped up in his wife and children. Though he is not adverse to a flirtation of varying degree with you, nothing more will come of the affair but more tears, and more worry for you. Be smart. Hand in your resignation fast, and don't leave a forwarding address.

Dear Miss Dix: I have been a widow for four years and am 34 years old. I have a son of 12. I was in a t.b. sanatorium for six months and thought that someday I would marry again and lead a normal life. Over a year ago I met a man of 38 and went with him for seven months. He told me he loved me and would do anything for me. I told him then that I had had t.b. He stopped coming to see me, and within five weeks married another girl. After two months he told me he was sorry he had married her, and that it was all my fault. I still love him, but have no intention of going out with him ever. Did I do right in telling him of my illness? That question always bothers me when I go out with a man. Should I tell them if they begin to be serious?

Answer: Of course you were right in telling the man you had been ill, but there's no reason for either you or him to act as if your illness were something horrible. Frankly, from the way you described him in your letter (part of which was omitted here), you are better off without him. If you do marry again, you want a kind, considerate husband who will be a good provider — none of which this man was.

You should have a frank discussion with your doctor on your complete medical history, and ask his advice on your attitude with future suitors. Knowing your case, he is in a position to guide you in the best way. When you meet a man who does become serious, it would be a good idea to have him talk to your doctor too.

Dear Miss Dix: I am 14 and in my second year of high school. My best friend and I skipped school twice, and were caught. Now my mother forbids me to see this girl, who she claims, is a bad influence on me. To be truthful, I talked her into not going to school. I promised my mother that it wouldn't happen again but she still insists I do not see my friend. My mother is a very understanding person, but in this case she will not listen to reason.

Answer: Have you told your mother that you were largely responsible for the school-shipping episode? She might view the matter in a different light, but of course your friend's mother would then be the one to forbid a continuance of the friendship. It is to be hoped that both you girls have learned a good lesson from the direct results of your escapades. Once you have shown evidence of being trustworthy, it is very difficult to have faith in you restored. Your mother is indeed an understanding person, and she realizes that her daughter deserves a severe penalty for bad conduct. The only way you can be convinced that you and your friend are good for each other is for you girls to give a first-class exhibition of good behavior. Keep it up until the black mark, against you, is erased.

London. It is all very well to make peace with Japan and not to become a self-sustaining military and political ally against the lawless aggression of those power-loving democracies, Soviet Russia and China.

But the Japanese people must not be allowed to work harder than the union bosses of the British Socialist movement permit British workmen to work nor for less money because, in that case, the Japanese will steal away the British foreign markets for manufactured goods, such as pottery and printed cotton. In fact, they are stealing some of these markets now. For that reason, typical of the union mentality in all countries, the British Socialists would like to compel Japan to promise the United Nations to pay higher wages to her workers and limit their production.

The British and American unions are playing an important part in the preparations to fight a war with Soviet Russia. The British Labor party, which is actually the Socialist party, insists that it is not necessary to rebuild military strength and that it would be little any way. They say the Americans are forcing Britain to spend herself broke by excessive rearmament.

They appear to believe that Soviet Russia could smash Britain in a very short war and that all Britain would get out of it would be defeat, ruin and the entry of a foreign army to occupy the country. The United States "They are very close to our CIO and our Socialist front, ABA.

A writer named Hugh Jenkins, who uses the term "conqueror" as a form of address, and in a recent issue of the official organ of the Deagan group that very few men and women in the "key points" of British industry could be persuaded to "join in the mockery of civil defense against the atom 'because 'if it comes we know we are in for it'."

"We are in the valley of the shadow of death," Mr. Jenkins continued. "The Labor government tried to be pro-American and anti-Russia. Capitalism and Stalinism are twin enemies of democracy. By attacking capitalism, the Labor government could have defeated both enemies."

Like the American unions, the British monopolies of labor, operated by a few pugnacious and deluged complainers, exert themselves mainly to cheapen the money which their subjects receive for their work so that the yearning for achieving this effect, they also restrict the amount of work that their subjects may do. The Japanese admittedly are much better workers than the occidentals and they can live on less food and content themselves with habitations and discomforts which would provoke western workers to revolution.

Last winter, Charles E. Wilson, our manager of war production in Washington, made a brief stand against the inflationary demands of Philip Murray, James E. Carey and other professional parasites of the union racket. But he lost the decision, even though it was then clearly shown that the only function of the unions was to cause trouble, run up the national expense and retard production. That critical jam with Wilson, they frankly demanded inflationary raises for their subjects who had never authorized them to make such demands, and the whole people of the United States had to pay them not to interfere with production for the current war in Korea and the war to come with Soviet Russia.

President Truman then took the side of the union parasites in order that he could say with specious truth a few days ago that the people of the United States never were more fully employed nor ever had received such high wages. The explanation that neither he nor Roosevelt could achieve full employment except by taking the country to war was not mentioned in his speech.

The British government is now importing American coal and paying $12 a ton freight or about $11 a ton delivered, because the British coal miners under unionism, by their voluntary absenteeism, are falling far behind their potential production. The Church of England's first word to the people included a promise of less coal and lower temperatures. Not mally, they keep the temperature of their homes and offices at about 60 in winter. Our average is 70.

The voluntary absenteeism accounts for the deficit. It is excused on the ground that the miners need sunshine and relaxation, but that does not excuse their fierce opposition to the importation of Italian miners of whom it was said in an article in the Sunday Observer that "They have a sensational ton of the trouble as usual."

Stanky to Sign Today With Cards

By JACK HAND

New York, Dec. 11 (AP) — Eddie Stanky is due to sign a two-year contract as player-manager of the St. Louis Cardinals today and Joe DiMaggio will announce his future plans.

The Stanky and DiMaggio developments probably will overshadow the seven-player deal completed last night between the Cincinnati Reds and Philadelphia Phillies.

In the only official swap of the winter meetings, Cincinnati sent Pitcher Horace Fox (14-14), Second Baseman Connie Ryan (23-34) and Catcher Forrest Burgess (23-37) to Philadelphia for Catcher Andy Seminick (23-34), Outfielder Dick Sisk (16-23), Pitcher Miles Jordan (2-31) and Infielder Eddie Pellagrini (2-23).

Stanky's switch to St. Louis for Pitcher Max Lanier (11-9) and Outfielder Chuck Diering (23-39) hinges on an agreement between the two players to split second base and play first base and center field.

Lanier, 26-year-old veteran lefty, would bolster the Giant staff and Diering, a good-field, right-center fielder, would provide center field insurance in case Willie Mays is injured.

Stanky, who played 145 games last year and hit .247 for the pennant-winning Giants, expects to play second base for his Cards. In that case, Ted Schoendienst might be shifted to first base. As Giant leadoff man, Eddie walked 127 times last season and hit .14 homers.

The DiMaggio announcement will settle the future of the 31-year-old star with the $100,000 salary. Joe told reporters after the World Series that he had played his last game, but held off positive confirmation at the request of the Yankees.

Since Dizzy Dean left the Yankees to take another job, the television job is open. There are strong reports DiMaggio will run the TV mike at Yankee stadium for the next three years at $50,000 per year.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

New York, Dec. 11 (AP) — Joe DiMaggio is supposed to give out today with his decision on whether or not he'll retire. ... If he decides to play another season, the Yankees apparently have wasted a lively persuasion campaign. ... First there was all that trade talk about Ted Williams and others, and then the flat statement that Joe could have the $50,000 job as television commentator if he wanted it. ... That would be quite a saving to the Yankees, who can't cut him below $75,000 as a player. ... Ballots for the 1951 Sullivan Memorial Award, which just arrived, show three Cardinals among the nine top candidates selected by the committee. ... Wonder if Paul means they're more deserving of merely that the Pacific Coast AAA groups are more diligent in sending in names? ... And after what you've been hearing lately, you wonder how anyone who ever went to college can qualify under the rigid amateur code set up by the committee.

Double Kayo

Eddie (Milkovich) Melvin, St. Louis Cardinals baseball coach, is understandably insistent that his players protect themselves against winter weather which can't good up that way. ... was an added precaution, he decided the other day the entire squad should have "shots" to prevent the recurrence of a virus malady that afflicted last year's team. ... The boys agreed, on condition that Eddie took the first shot, and they even talked the team physician into having one himself. ... Latest lament from Melvin: "You know who was laid up? The doc."

One-Minute Sports Page

What is this story that Stanford Coach Chuck Taylor is against bowl games and wouldn't take his team to the Rose Bowl if he didn't have to? ... All we know is that the guy who relayed that one Fast says his source is "very reliable." ... Looks like Murray Warmath, assistant to Red Blalock at West Point, will get the Mississippi State coaching job. ... And personable young Tom Nugent, who seems ready for a bigger and more remunerative job than VMI has available, apparently is No. 1 on the North Carolina State list. ... College prexies of the American Council for Education Committee are having another meeting in Washington to hear what, if anything, the NCAA has accomplished toward improving the college athletic situation. ... They're also still interested in relieving the pressure on coaches. ... Pete Montesi, double-amputee fighter and wrestling promoter, showed up his sixth annual Christmas show to last night. ... The stars, Pete says, still were mostly of the D. A. V. and soldiers, sailors and marines home on furlough.

End Of The Line

Carol Gassner, ministerial school senior at Duke who is out for the basketball team for the first time, received his B. S. in mechanical engineering at Cornell and his master's degree in physical metallurgy at the U. of Rochester. ... Sports-caster Red Barber will be a "soloist" with the philharmonic-symphony orchestra as narrator of "The Story of Ferdinand the Bull" at a children's concert Saturday. ... Ferdinand likely will remind him of the Dodgers late last season.

Egypt Files a Protest to UN

Paris, Dec. 11 (AP) — Egypt protested to the United Nations today against the destruction of an Egyptian village in the Suez area by British forces.

British army engineers over the weekend destroyed a 100-house village near Suez in building a new road between a military garrison and a water filtration plant. The French commander said the village was necessary because military convoys encountered Egyptian terrorists snipers along the old route.

A British military spokesman in the Suez area said that actual compensations have been worked out for the villagers.

The Egyptian protest was handed by Foreign Minister Salah El Din to U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie. The Egyptian government asked Lie to circulate the protest to all members. No further action was requested at this time.

Baylor Preparing for Bowl Game

Waco, Tex., Dec. 11 (AP) — Baylor's football squad returns to practice Thursday and the first thing the Bears will hear is that Georgia Tech, their opponent in the Orange Bowl, is "terrific."

Jim Crow, who scouted the Techs in their game with Georgia, has the highest back yard that the Yellow Jackets are very fast, have many scoring weapons and boast a great defense.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be devoted chiefly to imparting Crow's report to the squad and also watching films of three Georgia Tech games.

Tech Coach Bobby Dodd and Baylor Coach George Sauer swapped pictures, Tech getting the Rice, Southern Methodist and Texas games and Baylor the Kentucky, Auburn and Florida games.

"Man, what speed!" said Sauer. "And all-around offense. We're in for plenty of trouble."

Next week the squad will get down to hard work. Although no practice has been held since Dec. 1, when Baylor played its last regularly scheduled game with Rice, most of the Baylor players have kept in trim playing basketball, handball, tennis and golf.
